Welcome

Week six already... how time flies. I hope you enjoyed the local show holiday on Monday. Last newsletter I asked you to check in with your child on their understanding of their learning goals. I hope this was enlightening and beneficial. Should you require more information on this I encourage you to see your child's class teacher. As we move further down our Art of Science and Teaching pedagogical framework delivery you should hear and see more of this explicit discussion around how your child is progressing. Over the course of the next few months we will be focussing upon feedback. According to research, the use of well-planned and structured feedback has one of the highest impacts on improving student performance. Our school's commitment to an improvement agenda means we will be embracing a feedback culture at Bribie. I hope to keep you informed via our newsletter on our progress and your key role in this agenda.

Independent Public Schools

Our school has been investigating the possibility of applying to become an Independent Public School. Multiple consultation and discussion opportunities have been held. I wish to advise that given the range of feedback from staff, students, Union groups, Parents and Citizens Association and the community, we will not in 2013 be applying to become an Independent Public School. Should you require more information please do not hesitate to contact me.

Attendance

EVERY DAY COUNTS! Our goal is 95% attendance each and every day. We are taking this goal seriously and many parents are presently receiving letters seeking explanation as to their child's extended absence.

Behaviour

I was very comforted to have so many positive comments regarding last fortnight's newsletter where I restated our schools commitment to meeting our school's behaviour goals. So many parents have celebrated the fact that over 95% of our students comply with accepted behaviour each and every day. They also shared that it is not fair that this vast majority of students should not have their education improvement hindered by the minority (less than 5%) of students who do not comply with what is expected. Rest assured our school will make every effort to ensure every child is provided the opportunity to improve and engage in an uninterrupted learning environment.

Parent / Teacher Feedback Sessions

Please be advised the next formal opportunity for parents and teachers to meet on student progress, our Parent/Teacher Feedback Sessions, are planned for the week commencing 9th September. Parents should be receiving information from class teachers regarding these sessions.

Prep and Beyond

We want to provide a thorough induction for our future prep enrolments and will this term host a range of events to have our future prep students and their parents visit our school. Enrolments for prep are being taken now! Spread the word. Get in early.

Magpies

We have had reports of magpies in the school grounds. Please have a talk to your students. Below is information and recommendations from the EPA and wildlife groups.

Why magpies swoop

Magpies usually live in small groups and actively defend their territory from other birds, and other magpies, throughout the year. Between July and November magpies breed and raise their young. The male from a breeding pair takes on the specific role of defending its eggs and young while they are in the nest and will swoop at a predator or competing magpie if it believes it's a threat to the safety of its offspring. To be seen as a threat, an animal must come within a certain distance of the nest (the defence zone). This defensive behaviour lasts for a period of around six to eight weeks: the time from when the eggs are laid up to when the young leave the nest.

A learned behaviour

While this defensive behaviour is largely instinctive in magpies, as it is in other animals, a few magpies also recognise people as threats to their young. Those magpies that do see humans as a threat may have learned this behaviour in response to some past experience where a person has done something threatening to their young. Evidence that this is a learned behaviour rather than an instinct can be seen in the way some magpies only target pedestrians, while others target cyclists—or even exclusively postal workers on motorcycles.

Defending their young

Research also clearly shows that this defensive behaviour is directed toward protecting the young and not a particular territory as male magpies becoming increasingly defensive as the chicks grow. As soon as the young birds leave the nest all defensive behaviour stops.

Staying safe around magpies

EHP recommends the following actions are taken to protect yourself from magpies when they are breeding:

- If possible avoid the zone defended by the male magpie if you can (stay more than 110 metres from the nest if you're on foot; or 150 metres away if you're on a bike).
- Magpies are less likely to swoop if you walk in a group. Team up with others if you walk through a nesting area on your way to or from school.
- Watch magpies. If they know they're being watched they are less likely to swoop.
- Don't fight back. Throwing sticks at a magpie will only make it more defensive next time.
- Never approach a young magpie that's out of the nest. The parents may think you're trying to harm it. Rescuing baby magpies is best left for wildlife rescue groups.

Student Leaders 2014

It is that time of the year again where we start the process of electing next year's student leaders. In 2014 we will be offering leadership positions to all students in years 6 and 7 (this years 5 and 6) students. 2014 will be the last year at primary school for both cohorts, as in 2015 all year seven in Queensland will be part of secondary schools. Students interested in applying will take home a nomination form and information sheet to explain the process.

Teaching and Learning Audit

The final stage of our schools Teaching and Learning Audit has been the receipt of the Auditors Executive Summary. I have attached this summary and an information fact sheet for parents. The recommendations from the Executive Summary have already been actioned as a school. These have informed some slight edits to our three year School Plan and Annual Implementation Plan.

As you can attest from reviewing the Executive Summary our school is very well positioned within our Improvement Agenda.

Book Week

Next week is Book Week. We start the week with our annual book character dress up parade on Monday. We would love to see you here.

Have a great fortnight

Paul Pickering
Principal

We also have excursions coming up for Year 1 – Planetarium, Year 2 – Maleny Dairies and Year 4 – St. Helena Island. Thankyou to all the parents that have volunteered to make these excursions possible.

Importantly we are now undertaking prep enrolments and our next Prep Information and Enrolment session is at 9am on the 5th September, with a school tour included. Please contact Mrs. Menzies in the front office for information. ## Mental Mathematics Challenge 2013

This week as part of our ongoing Literacy and Numeracy week celebrations Bribie Island State School held our annual Mental Mathematics Challenge. Students in every class across the school were involved in an array of classroom challenges to establish a class winner, who then battled it out with student representatives from the other classes in their year level. Teachers created the questions for the event and supported the students by asking the questions.

This is the first time the event has been run as a special event and was greatly supported by students, teachers and families. It was great to see students enjoying mathematics and what was even better was the sportsmanship between all our finalists.

Our Prep students were also involved and did such a fantastic job that a tie had to be called as the two remaining contestants were both so evenly matched.
